PROGRAMMING NOTE

Nicknamed the "Pink Palace", the Hamilton princess in Bermuda has been hosting executive functions and retreats for over a century.

It is precisely that history and prestige which makes it the perfect host location for our first executive offsite under the Cyber Strategy retreat banner.

PREPARING FOR DAY 2

It is important to allow yourself to rest and recover from the travel and excitement of meeting everyone for the first time. Try to relax and unwind this first night. Maybe take a quick walk on the beach and listen to the waves, or just sit down with a book in a quiet nook. Whatever your choice, allow your brain some silent recovery time to get yourself primed for the next few days. Before you go to bed we recommend charging your devices, laying out your outfit and taking time to set your intention for the remainder of the program.

PROGRAMMING NOTE

ALL working sessions have meaningful networking and wellness breaks placed throughout.

There is intentional placement of the breaks to ensure you have enough time to refresh your mind and body in anticipation of the next session.

There may even be some special expert guests to help us unwind.

After a packed day like that we again stress the importance of winding down for the night. This is a great time to reflect on some of the more important realizations and lessons learned over the course of the day. What was your favourite lesson from the Masterclass portion? What about in the business development portion? What questions still linger from the day? Get yourself clarity on these questions and whatever you cannot figure out keep for questions during the working sessions on day 3.

P.S. You might want to pack a swimsuit for tomorrow

PREPARING FOR DAY 4

Tomorrow is the final day of the offsite program. Be sure to pack up your bags ahead of time and set up your outfit for the day. Tonight we invite you to revisit some of the questions and themes of the first night where you set your intention. Have you achieved all you wanted? Are you feeling renewed and focused? We will meet again tomorrow for some final programming and ceremonies, but the feelings and knowledge you have now will carry you through your journey back home and allow you to succeed beyond the offsite.

PROGRAMMING NOTE

To ensure ease of transport, a chartered car service will pick you up from the hotel and drive you back to the airport.

Please be sure to give the offsite notice of the time of your flight so we can ensure a smooth and easy transition back home.

NOTES FOR THE RETURN HOME

You made it! 4 days, fully packed with Cyber Executive Masterclass sessions, personal and professional development sessions and executive team building to top it off. Now what?

On the journey home make special note to reflect on your experience in the first Cyber Strategy Retreat - Executive Offsite. Take a moment and think about what you learned, both about yourself and your business. What steps will you take as soon as you get home? In the first week? The first quarter? By the end of the year?

The most important work happens when you leave the offsite. Take these steps and once again set your intention of how to implement change within your organization. The first few weeks will be the most important in beginning to put into practice your lessons learned over the past 4 days. The offsite team remains at your service if you need any reminders or have questions you need answered. We leave you with the words of Tony Robbins...

“You see, in life, lots of people know what to do, but few people actually do what they know. Knowing is not enough! You must take action”
